

Heaven

Adept

(You ready?)

You said you'd never let me go

So it begins to fade

No matter where we go from here nothing will ever change
I buried myself deep enough in the palm of my own hands
The river of forgiveness is as shallow as a grave
If I could make the time stand still but its ticking you away

I never said that I understood what I've done wrong

So I'm repeating the pattern
And here I am and I'm all alone and we're out of time
And not a second will save us

This is a shallow fucking grave, oh

(And all I need from you is your fucking love)

Nothing stays the same

Nothing feels like the weight of the world
When it's crashing around you
Like missing pieces, nothing stays the same

I don't want to feel the emptiness controlling me, a fear that never ends
I still walk down the same old road, to see your face again
But I missed the part where we fell apart and it was all because of me

You paint me black with all that you got but we both know
From front to back of everything you did
And god, I was just kid
But if I could you know, I would repeat the pattern
But the moment is now
No light will shine forever

Nothing stays the same

Nothing feels like the weight of the world
When it's crashing around you
Like missing pieces, nothing stays the same

Nothing stays the same, nothing hurts like
Missing pieces, nothing stays the same
(I wish I could've saved you but I had to save myself first)

Now that I'm facing the hands of time
With all those things I can't turn around
Let me show you heaven and all the things we could have been
Now that I'm facing the hands of time
With all those things I can't turn around
Let me show you heaven
Let me show you heaven
(I'm sorry)