

Untouchable

Ador Dorath

We want to touch the stars... To humble the sky and ground... To fly to the limit of the Milky Way. To overpower all living and inanimate... To reach the bottom of the oceans.

To penetrate to the earth's core... We try to tie the wind... To control the sea flow. To mine all the wealth from the deep... To search what stays still hidden.

Aware of the life we're living... Dreaming of effortless future... We want to kill the God in us... To say that there is none to equal us!

To overstep another threshold... To see the horizon and further in the light of the Sun. In the moment we want to change the world.

We don't belong to anybody, just to ourselves.

To have an alibi for the light of past... To see only the way forward. Don't look aside... And never don't look back!

To overstep another threshold... To see the horizon and further in the light of Sun. In the moment we want to change the world.

Aware of the life we're living... Dreaming of effortless future... We want to kill the God in us... To say that there is none to equal us!

To put our own interest above all... Without doubts... There wouldn't be what we have...

Without us!

We, the sons of the mighty, that created what we call the human world. It is only us who decide... Till the end comes... We want it all... If we are born for the second time... We want everything at once... We are untouchable!