

Never Enough

Aesthetic Perfection

I sweep across the land in vain,
Like locust swarming in the breeze,
I want for nothing yet I keep,
Exercising futility.

Success is ashes on my tongue,
Remain unhappy though I'm loved,
I know I'm foolish and I'm young,
But can't you see it's not enough?

I'm not satisfied,
It's all or nothing,
There's no peace of mind for me,
And even though I try,
My greedy heart is hungry,
I'm not satisfied,
You see?

I've seen much more than most could hope,
Accomplished dreams and traveled roads,
Through all my lovers I have grown,
Just not enough to make a home,
There's no religion there's no god,
Who'll fill this emptiness I've got,
What good's belief when it is wrong?
Just gimme more because I'm not!

I'm not satisfied,
It's all or nothing,
There's no peace of mind for me,
And even though I try,
My greedy heart is hungry,
I'm not satisfied,
You see?
I'm not satisfied,
I'm lost and empty,
There's no reason why,
You see?
And I could live a thousand lives,
And I know I won't be happy,
I'm not satisfied with me.

Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!
Never enough, never enough!

I run my hands across my face,
Failing to feel the moments weight,
Is this all life is offering?
Well, what the hell is wrong with me?

I'm not satisfied,

It's all or nothing,
There's no peace of mind for me,
And even though I try,
My greedy heart is hungry,
I'm not satisfied,
You see?
I'm not satisfied,
I'm lost and empty,
There's no reason why,
You see?
And I could live a thousand lives,
And I know I won't be happy,
I'm not satisfied with me.
