

Wresting Worm

Aeternus

Abnormity comes in ways of many disillusioned views.
Concerning the simplest of ideas
That have been verified, time and time again.
One can speak of natural selection in terms, but more illuminating, in strands of the self-eradication of oneself.
Thus the basics fall upon their own disparity with what's forementioned.
I do think however, that these paradigms are of such primal necessity that Words of discontent may not meet the necessary requirements.
Though I still choose to invite myself into the herd as a wolf among sheep, or more figuratively speaking:
The beacon picking the wresting worms.
The fearsome guillotine ministered
by the the joyful folly of the representatives of this madness.
Their heads are as many as the variety of their ideas.
And their deaths are as cleansing as fires in the furnace.
Yes, a necessity has been pointed.
But nevertheless I choose the alternative of elimination.