Timeless Skies

While travelling northwards On a back country lane I came on the village Where first I grew And stopped to climb up The hill once again Looking down from the tracks To the grey slate roofs

I watched the village moving As the day went slowly by In the field we lay here Lovers' footsteps went by In the fields we lay here My very first love and I Under timeless arcadian skies Under timeless arcadian skies

The old canal lies Sleeping under the sky The barges are gone to a lost decade On overgrown banks here Lovers' footsteps went by Long before ever the roads were made And in our turn we passed here And carved our names on trees As the days washed by like Waves of an endless sea Under timeless arcadian skies Under timeless arcadian skies

Time runs through your fingers You never hold till its gone Some fragments just linger with you Like snow in the spring hanging on

I left the village behind in the night To fade like a sail in the darkening seas The shifts and changes in the patterns of life Will weather it more that the centuries And in another village in a far off foreign land The new day breaks out opening up its hand And the sun has the moon in his eyes As he wanders the timeless skies

Al Stewart