

Good Days

Alain Clark

the same road leads to the same house i wish this key would fit the door still the same backyard but with a new fence ooh yeah see, i dont live here anymore daddy used to pick me up make me feel like I was flying momma used to laugh at me and I wasn't even trying never a worry on my mind, I was the king, the world was mine everything is still the same except the time memories of the years i've left behind but although im moving on, and I cant be forever young
The good days, are forever in my mind the same boy still getting in trouble ooh, how we loved to bend the rules the same old friends still hang in the courtyard but this time to pick their children up from school never had a boring day, there was always something cooking you know we never missed a thing, we were way too buisy looking we knew the words to every song, we were right and they were wrong but most of all, we were right where we belong everything is still the same except the time(except the time)
but although im moving on, and I cant be forever young
what i'd give for just another day, of innocence i trade my right f only it were just to run away from all these lies haven't snuck their way inside everything's still the same except the time, good old
everything's still the same except the time (except the
behind)
and although I'm movin' on and I can't be forever young
And everything's the same except the time
behind)
the good days are forever.... oohooohoooh, {stuck in my mind In my mind, in my mind and though} 4 X back in the day (3 x) seemed like everything was okay said i remember the time I was a little boy, dreamin' being a man it was so unconvinced i knew it all, people didn't understand no one ever knew what we did back there we had it all so figured out the World at our feet our hearts on the street the only thing we cared about
