

twenty something

Alana Springsteen

Leave your clothes in the dryer
Can't put air in your tires
Throw your life in the backseat
You barely sleep, and you don't eat
Try to fit in the circles you run in
Twenty something

We drink a little bit too much and
We're falling in and out of love and
Everybody says we're legal
But we know that we can't be trusted
The candles on the cake say we're growing up
We're staying out late, and we're throwing up
We know it all and don't know nothing
At twenty something

You swear you won't regret that tattoo
Compare yourself to the friends that pass you
Scared to say that the future scares you
You wanna run, but you don't know where to
Your heart is just a bag you're punching
At twenty something

We drink a little bit too much and
We're falling in and out of love and
Everybody says we're legal
But we know that we can't be trusted
The candles on the cake say we're growing up
We're staying out late, and we're throwing up
We know it all and don't know nothing
At twenty something
Twenty something

Always somewhere in between
All your plans and all your dreams
Fifty dollars in the bank
Never more than half a tank
All the happy, all the hurting
You don't even know you're learning

We drink a little bit too much and
We fall in and out of love and
Everybody says we're legal
But we know that we can't be trusted
The candles on the cake say we're growing up
We're staying out late, and we're throwing up
We know it all and don't know nothing
At twenty something
