

You can't forget all of love's borders
You can't forget all that you see
In spite of everything
You're suffering the best of me

And I'll forgive you for the moment
Because you brightened the day
Tomorrow we shall see
Could be something saddening instead

Love missed its start and I know why
Cause when it's really true you don't have to hide

And then apart from everything that we've been through
It's suddenly brighter than light
I can't believe the time
I wasted with you on my mind

And so I put pen on to paper
In silence I want to speak
There's nothing you can bring
That's worth considering to stay