

Looking Back

Albert Hammond

Looking back
Looking back

Once you've had some years on you
Once you've loved a time or two
Certain things get clearer
In the rearview mirror

After your heart's had some breaks
After all the past mistakes
Nothing's worth regretting
And nothing's worth forgetting

Looking back
I cherish the sun that warmed my face
Looking back
I'm glad that I ran every losing race
Life's a train rolling on
I'm sitting watching it disappearing down the track
Looking back
Looking back

Everything I ever tried
Every tear I ever dried
Bitter times I've tasted
Better times I've wasted

After all is said and done
All of that melts into one
We are only dancers
The music plays forever

Looking back
I cherish the sun that warmed my face
Looking back
I'm glad that I ran every losing race
Life's a light that's shining on
I see a million stars that light up the black
Looking back
Looking back

Looking back
I cherish the sun that warmed my face
Looking back
I'm glad that I ran every losing race
Life's a light that's shining on
I see a million stars that light up the black
Looking back
Looking back Looking back