

Take me Sailing

Albert Hammond

I'm leaving tomorrow to find a new place
I'll let you know when to come
I'm turning my back on the same old routine
Always a race to be run
I'm leaving behind me a world full of cares
A world that can never be one

I'm going sailing across the water
To find an island in the sun
I'll be waiting, I'll be waiting
To take you sailing

There's grass in the meadow and wind in the trees
It may seem like nothing to some
But there's no better place in the world, you will see
Where love has already begun
I'm going to build us a house of our own
I'll let you know when it's done

From every window you'll see the water
And every morning you'll see the sun
I'll be waiting, I'll be waiting
To take you sailing

Come watch the rainbows that fall to the sea
Come watch the sails as they run
The love that is ours forever will be
Forever and never undone
Come watch the clouds turning pink in the sky
The stars coming out one by one

Come watch the moonlight upon the water
And hold me 'til the rising sun
Then take me sailing, take me sailing
Take me sailing

Come watch the moonlight upon the water
And hold me 'til the rising sun
Then take me sailing, take me sailing
Take me sailing

Come watch the moonlight
