

The Prophecy

Alborosie

You may become the man that you where called and selected to be
I release faith in your heart
Wisdom to your mind, there is music in you
And I sturb that musical ability within you
I sturb the ability to communicate through that instrument
You will speak, you will be a voice of your generation
But by the word of the living God
May you directed to the glory of God
And the building up and strengthening of humanity
Your hands will be skilful hands son, skilful hands

And so we call for that skill
The skill of your hands will take you before kings
And strength will be in your character
You will be a strong man on your inside
That will overcome every obstacle
Because you will not be held down
You will rise every time
Because your gift will make room for you
And you will take your place
And be a blessing to your generation
Alborosie lyrics are copyright by their rightful owne