

Julie

aldn

Julie's never goin' home, one last kiss before the road
So he waits by the phone, but she will never know
Julie wants to be alone, all her clothes are cut and sewn
All that's left of her is stitched into his t-shirt
If you take your eyes off her, Julie turns into a blur
And I would fly across the earth
To just get back to where we were
But that's not what she's lookin' for
She don't need me anymore
I try to fill the space between Between Julie, the world, and me

"A hundred forty feet," it's what you said to me
Oh, I let go of you
We move at different speeds
But Julie, can't you see?
I'd slow it down for you

There's a forest in your eyes
As you're leavin' up the five
Now, everybody that I see is Lookin' at me through the trees
The sun reflects off someone's hair
Or I'll see panties that you wear
I see a passing Subaru, it all reminds me of you

"A hundred forty feet," it's what you said to me
Oh, I let go of you
We move at different speeds
But Julie, can't you see?
I'd slow it down for you
