

Saving Sawyer

Alec Benjamin

She said, "We're too young
And we're too different people."
She said, "I'll bite my tongue, lock my lips, and paint my door
'Cause your love is lethal."

Oh, I want to love this girl
Spend prom night waiting in her foyer
I'm not trying to save the world
Just saving Sawyer

You're not wrong
And I know that trusting me takes long
And that you're worth it, worth it
I've wrote this song
In hopes that she's not moving on
'Cause I wasn't perfect, perfect

Oh, I want to love this girl
Spend prom night waiting in her foyer
I'm not trying to save the world
Just saving

I'm not trying to save the world
Just trying to put it back together again
Just trying to put it back together again
Just trying to put it back together again, for her
Just put it back together again
Put it back together again
Just trying to put it back together again
Just trying to put it back together again, for her
Just put it back together again

Oh, I want to love this girl
Spend my life waiting in her foyer
I'm not trying to save the world
Just saving Sawyer
