

Too Many Tears

Alejandro Escovedo

Well the sun comes up like a lollypop
Then the sun goes down like a golden crown
I need your hungry kiss it's all I miss
I need your hungry touch just a little too much

There's too many tears
Yes too many tears
Oh too many tears for a night like this

I don't need your attention but I'll take it
You're like a habit but I don't want to break it
Put on some red lipstick just don't think it
Let's light up the cake, yeah let's light up the cake

Oh there's too many tears
Yes too many tears
Oh too many tears for a night like this

Blinded by the camera flash we dance on broken glass
The band plays out of tune but the rhythm is true
So let the band keep playing keep the dancer swinging
Break out another flask or some will always last

Oh there's too many tears
Yes too many tears
Oh too many tears for a night like this
