

Left Alone

Alessia Cara

I planted a garden
You walked all over it
You hung me to dry like a T-shirt in the wind
Well, you're lost in yourself
Really hope you can find a way out
There's a hole where your heart should be
No longer holding me down

No room for you on my plate
I need some energy to save
Got no time to give you time of day
No need for what you gotta say

So it don't matter, we're both grown
I'm much better on my own
Ah, some things are better left alone
Some things are better left alone
Some things are better left alone

I'm learning my lesson
I'll find what I deserve
You pulled on my heartstrings
Now you're just on my nerves
There's a blade in your honesty
Dodging your constant attacks
There's a space where your brain should be
No, I'm not calling you back

No room for you on my plate
I need some energy to save
Got no time to give you time of day
No need for what you gotta say

So it don't matter, we're both grown
I'm much better on my own
Ah, some things are better left alone
Some things are better left alone
Some things are better left alone