

Her

Alex Aiono

You used to visit me when I was in the city
I wasn't perfect but you still were messing with me
No doubt you never lost patience
From no crowds to standing ovations

We used to talk about the future like it's coming
You used to tell me you could hear the chairs rocking
You said this love was so different
And I wish that I would've listened

I don't remember why we even broke up
If I had another shot I'd take it
Nothing ever made her heart worth breaking

All my friends try to set me up
With girls that I'd never love
I try, but when the night is up
I still go back to

Almost sending "I miss you" texts
When I know she's in his bed
And I'm just another ex
But I still go back to her

I still go back to her
I still go back to her
She loves another man, so I can't
But I still go back to her

And I know I'ma be alright, it's whatever
But without you it's never gettin' better
Some things are hard to forget, yeah
And that's something I got to except, yeah

I don't remember why we even broke up
If I had another shot, I'd make it
Nothing ever made her heart worth breaking

All my friends try to set me up
With girls that I'd never love
I try, but when the night is up
I still go back to

Almost sending "I miss you" texts
When I know she's in his bed
And I'm just another ex
But I still go back to her

I still go back to her
I still go back to her
She loves another man, so I can't
But I still go back to her

I still go back to her
I still go back to her
She loves another man, so I can't
But I still go back to her

My friends try to set me up
With girls that I'd never love
I try, but when the night is up
I still go back to

Almost sending "I miss you" texts
When I know she's in his bed
And I'm just another ex
But I still go back to her

I still go back to her
I still go back to her
She loves another man, so I can't
But I still go back to her

I still go back to her
I still go back to her
She loves another man, so I can't
But I still go back to her