Indivisible

Alex Vargas

You speak your mind and I set the price at no goodbye
But wouldn't you love to fight? Wouldn't you love to fight?
Quickly regret your words and forget that when you bite
I lose the will to fight for it
All of my energy won't break the chain

When it all comes down
Splits us like a molecule
There's something left in me and you
Something indivisible
All I know, is we could never lose it all
'Cause underneath the physical
There's something indivisible
Something indivisible

Lost in the fractures after the rapture, we remain
And we'll never be the same, we'll never be the same
Timeless together, together forever, we align
So wouldn't you love to fight for it
'Cause all of our energy makes up the chain

When it all comes down
Splits us like a molecule
There's something left in me and you
Something indivisible
All I know, is we could never lose it all
'Cause underneath the physical
There's something indivisible
Something indivisible

All of our energy won't break the chain
All of our energy won't break the chain
All of our energy won't break the chain
All of our energy won't break the chain
All of our energy won't break the chain
You speak your mind and I set the price at no goodbye
But wouldn't you love to fight for it
You speak your mind and I set the price at no goodbye
But wouldn't you love to fight for it

When it all comes down
Splits us like a molecule
There's something left in me and you
Something indivisible
All I know, is we could never lose it all
'Cause underneath the physical
There's something indivisible
Something indivisible
Something indivisible
Something indivisible
