

Hours on the phone you never liked to be alone
Until one night I went to bed without a call
You're seeing someone new
He said he heard I'm a great dude
I shoulda seen it from the jump you'd never fall

You took a lighter to my heart
And smoked me like a Winston
I lit the way right to him

And I know it shouldn't hurt but it really does
You were never mine but god it does suck
Missing you so bad feels pathetic because
You were never mine but baby I was yours
I was yours (Ooh)
I was yours

I thought that you could read my mind
Except the things I kept inside
I really wanted you to know you never read
Like I'm 1984 a cautious tale that you ignored
You picked your version of the truth and left me for dead

You took a lighter to my heart
And smoked me like a Winston
I lit the way right to him

And I know it shouldn't hurt but it really does
You were never mine but god it does suck
Missing you so bad feels pathetic because
You were never mine but baby I was yours
I was yours (Ooh)
I was yours

I loved you from a distance, oh
Said no words and hope you'd listen, oh
Now a part of me is missing, oh
It gets more lost each time you turn away to kiss him, oh
It shouldn't hurt but it really does
'Cause you were never mine but god does it suck
Missing you so bad feels pathetic as fuck
You were never mine but baby I was yours
I was yours
I was yours
I was yours
I was yours
I was yours
