

Unforgiving

Alien Weaponry

The world keeps crashing down around me time and time again
I pretend but I know one day my happiness will end
When I look around I find that everything I have in life is temporary
We are mortal beings that must end
When I lose control I feel me slipping from my grasp
Unforgiving, undermining everything I've worked for
Feel it in your soul just like a hole that can't be filled
No matter how hard you try, a pessimistic plague that can't be killed

The world keeps crashing down around me time and time again
I pretend but I know one day my happiness will end
When I look around I find that everything I have in life is temporary
We are mortal beings that must end
When I lose control I feel me slipping from my grasp
Unforgiving, undermining everything I've worked for
Feel it in your soul just like a hole that can't be filled
No matter how hard you try, a pessimistic plague that can't be killed

The world keeps crashing down around me time and time again
I pretend but I know one day my happiness will end
When I look around I find that everything I have in life is temporary
We are mortal beings that must end
When I lose control I feel me slipping from my grasp
Unforgiving, undermining everything I've worked for
Feel it in your soul just like a hole that can't be filled
No matter how hard you try, a pessimistic plague that can't be killed