You're My iPod

You are always with me And I always want you around You can light up a space whenever it's dark And I need you now that we've decided to park And I always think that you're so fun

You're so small I'm afraid I'll lose you But tonight it's me and you

You and me, my iPod You and me, my iPod I remember my walkman But you're just more elegant and I'll never trade you in

I am always with you And I'm glad that you want me around You keep my batteries charged at a frequent pace And I appreciate the protective case And our music tastes are the same

You're so big I know you'll protect me and tonight it's me and you

'Cause I'm your iPod 'Cause I'm your iPod I remember sitting in the dark (I remember) Just another box in the store but now I am yours

It's been two years you're getting kind of warn (Sitting in the dark) And now your harddrive, it's at eighty-five percent

I can't believe that you would say these things It's not my fault you dropped me These dents are from you!

I should have bought a warranty I should have bought a warranty

You know you promised you would always love meeee

You are always with me (I am always with you) And I always want you around (And I'm glad that you want me around) You can light up a space whenever it's dark And I need you now that we've decided to park And I always think that you're so fun ('Cause I'm your iPod) Whaoo Always think that you're so fun ('Cause I'm your iPod)
