

Falling For Strangers

All Time Low

I got a piece of you with me everywhere I go
Still holding onto hope, but I just feel hollow
And I carry that history like it's set in stone
Guess I'm wearing it out tonight 'cause I can't let it go

They taste like you, only bitter
Momma didn't raise no quitter

It's a long way down with no way out, what a lonely point of view
Falling for strangers who look like you
And it's a long way back to happy now, but what else could I do
?
I'm falling for strangers, strangers who look like you

Falling for strangers
Strangers who look like you

Could've guessed, should've known, got a type now and it shows
Same color hair, same clothes with a slightly different nose
And the jokes don't seem to hit, and the puzzle piece don't fit
'Cause they're just not quite you, and this is not quite it

They taste like you, only bitter
But Momma didn't raise no quitter

It's a long way down with no way out, what a lonely point of view
Falling for strangers who look like you
And it's a long way back to happy now, but what else could I do
?
I'm falling for strangers, strangers who look like you

Another face in the crowd, another way to find out
It's just a cope, and nothing compares to you
I'm doubling down, trying to blur you out
But I go for broke 'cause nothing compares

And it's a long way down with no way out, what a lonely point of view
Fuck it
Falling for strangers who look like you
And it's a long way back to happy now, it's the best that I can do
I'm falling for strangers, guess nothing changes
I'm falling for strangers, strangers who look like you

Falling for strangers

Strangers who look like you