

Drive Away

All

Tears fall down and wash the dirt away Sky opens up to cry a while Too many tortured memories to pass the time The sun never shows its face Steel belts leave their tracks along the way

Radio sings forgotten songs Summer always seems to be so far away The sun never shows its face Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world At night the highway seems so never ending The highway signs glare back and blind your understanding The moon comes out to light the way The sun never shows its face Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts Time flies by, we all wonder why It takes time away to kill the pain Hearts celebrate but always bend You know it'll hurt until the end Tonight the headlight's shining through There still time For everything to change Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts