

December

Allan Rayman

Episode, not another episode
Boy, you gotta let her go
How you put up with the boy, you put her on a pedestal
She just satisfy him, so he say so
What the devil wants, she was beautiful
Never loved again, I got the music though
Where I got the music though?
I was tied to the melody
In the sound of music tho, UH
This is how the story go
Crossroads, crossroads, crossroad

Never thought he'd live to see her love
Someone who's just like her
No one could be that cool
And now the summer's dead
With her long lights gone amber
She can't stay forever 23

December is a lonely holiday
Drinks will come and feelings, they will go
Love is strong, but lust will always go

Don't speak to him about love, he gave his heart to her
Don't speak to him about love, he gave his heart to her
Love is something he knows nothing of
Don't speak to him about love, he gave his heart to her
You'll be dressed up, pieced up like a queen
It begins, the night was young
They spoke of something strong
If it's all just future broken hearts
The new kid's lost in sex, drugs killed the king of him

December is a lonely holiday
Drinks will come and feelings, they will go
Love is strong, but lust will always go

You tie yourself to love, you gave her flesh and blood
You tie yourself to love, you gave her flesh and blood
Wedding bells and white-clad girls are grand
She plans her masquerade, her father's money spent
To your man, you know not what you've done
You tie yourself to love, you gave her flesh and blood
Youth is killed at age of 23

December is a lonely holiday
Drinks will come and feelings, they will go
Love is strong, but lust will always go
