

Lie Detector

Allison Ponthier

She's a lie detector
And I'm a deflector
Hiding behind my pride
Try not to run for cover
Because I love her
And I'm scared all of the time
Makes me wanna change
Until I'm a stranger
So she can't read my mind
She sees through me

Chasing me in my dreams
Unraveling seams
She's pointing me at myself
Led me up to the attic
Fighting the static
Blowing the dust off the shelf
Won't let me live in denial
Makes me swear on the Bible
Wanna be anywhere else
She sees through me
Right through me

Take the words right out my mouth
Even ten feet underground
I could never hide enough
If I never let my guard down
Then I never have to find out
If to be seen is to be loved

I nervously laugh
My face is a mask
She's asking if I'm alright
I say, "Yeah, I'm fine
I think I'm just tired"
There's nothing on my mind
Everything that I think
Like invisible ink
Written between the lines
She sees through me
Right through me

Take the words right out my mouth
Even ten feet underground
I could never hide enough
If I never let my guard down
Then I never have to find out
If to be seen is to be loved
