

Last Dance

Allman Brown

There's an old road
To the deep [?]
We all walk it someday
Don't you know?

Was I a good man?
Was I happy then?
From the deeds
I bless my words
There's this memory
That I keep of you
And it keeps me too
There's this memory
That I keep of you
And it keeps me
It keeps me

And we danced, danced, danced
With your arms around my shoulders
It's all I ever wanted
Now I know
When we danced, danced, danced
With your eyes so bright and wild
And your body singing loud next to mine
When we danced, danced, danced
Danced, danced, danced
Danced, danced, danced one last time

In the deepest dawn
When the shadow's long
It's you I'm chasing as the light burns

Was I a good man?
Were we happy then?
From our deeds
I blessed our words
There's this memory
That I keep of you
And it keeps me too
There's this memory
That I keep of you
And it keeps me
It keeps me

And we danced, danced, danced
With your arms around my shoulders
It's all I ever wanted
Now I know
When we danced, danced, danced
With your eyes so bright and wild
And your body singing loud next to mine
Danced, danced, danced
Danced, danced, danced

And we danced, danced, danced
With your arms around my shoulders
Now I know
With your eyes so bright and wild
And your body singing loud next to mine
Danced, danced, danced
Danced, danced, danced

When we danced...
