Palms

Allman Brown

You're my manor in the desert
A palm upon my brow
You're my medicine when I'm too weak
To think, to think, to speak, to weep

It's you holding me together, together
It's you holding me together, together

I'm strung out like words
An open book for you to read
I lay down my shields
To reveal the truth of me

It's you holding me together, together
It's you holding me together, together

You're sunlight in my bones
When I'm all out of hope
I'm not lonely when I'm alone
Your sweet oxygen
Rushing through my blood
Deep satisfaction

All my fears fade
Like dreams when I'm awake
Turn from shadows
To the dawn of your embrace

It's you holding me together, together
It's you holding me together, together

You're sunlight in my bones
When I'm all out of hope
I'm not lonely when I'm alone
Your sweet oxygen
Rushing through my blood
Deep satisfaction

It's you
It's you
It's you
It's you
It's you

You're sunlight in my bones
When I'm all out of hope
I'm not lonely when I'm alone
Your sweet oxygen
Rushing through my blood
Deep satisfaction
