

Covenant

Allt

The sky breathes, chaotic stars collide
Will we for once be satisfied when we won't see the morning sun
?

I heard a whisper from a distant land
(It talks to me)
Where we were born
Will never be the same

A mother stares into her end
A father to witness eternal suffering

Children, be aware
Thy heaven shall bleed
Black rain will fall

Upon us all

Open the sky
Bleed it dry

Do you remember the starlit night sky?
Do you remember the sun of morn?

The coldest winds are here to stay
Will these blackened skies mark the end of our days?
When we're consigned to oblivion
Will we find our peace as dust?

Do you remember the starlit night sky? (when our dreams were made)

Do you remember the sun of morn? (No more)
Do you remember the trees who spoke so enchantingly?
Do you remember the ocean our eyes used to down in?

They are no more