The freedom is in our eyes the hero is in our hearts darkness will be no more in the golden era we are the iron angels we are the courriers we are the children of the endless light and love we are the steel saviours we are the warriors we are the children of the sky and the sun the freedom is in our eyes the hero is in our hearts darkness will be no more in the golden era the courage is in our eyes the power is in our hearts light and justice will return in the golden era... in the golden era people will be free in freedom time the sun will rise and darkness will end in the endless sky children of tomorrow will live forever with the brothers hearts the war will end and light will return under rising sun
