

affinity

alt.

I'm leaning out and I can't see you here or anywhere at all any more

I used to come around and we'd spend all our time building our home

And then I'd go

I left something here that I never want to leave

I never want to leave

There's something in your bones that I needed along

You would stumble when I crawl

Please bring me in now I have had enough I'm freezing out my days

It's hard to be away

I am sinking ever deeply into what you give me I'm more

Like I'm meant for something

There's something in your bones that I needed along

You would stumble when I crawl

I have something buried in my soul

You would stumble when I crawl

This time I'm not letting you go

This time I'm not letting you go

This time I'm not letting you go

This time I'm not letting you go

I'm not letting you go

There's something in your bones that I needed along

You would stumble when I crawl

I have something buried in my soul

You would stumble when I crawl