

The Deep End

Aly & AJ

I used to be golden
I used to be evergreen
Now I'm just tired
I'm quick to get over things
I've been so restless when I wake up
I fall right back into sleep
It's like my mind controls my body
Pulls me back down into dreaming

Find myself inside the deep end
Of my parents' pool
Floating on the surface
I can pick up every word

I used to be joyful
A childlike echo down a hallway
Thought I needed nothing
I need more than sunshine to get me up on my feet
I've been so restless when I wake up
I fall right back into sleep
It's like my mind controls my body
Pulls me back down into dreaming

Find myself inside the deep end
Of my parents' pool
Floating on the surface
I can pick up every word

Find myself inside the deep end
Of my parents' pool
Floating on the surface
I can pick up every word
