

Blue Bird

AmaLee

You said if you could fly
You would fly far, far into the sky
So all you'd ever know
Is the blue, the blue sky up above

You've yet to learn what the pain from true sadness is like
You've only had but a taste but you're a moth to the flame
When all my feelings reach you and they'll no longer be mute
For on that day they'll live in spoken words

From in a dream
When you awake into the world
You no longer know
If you could only spread your wings and fly away

You said if you could fly
You would fly far, far into the sky
And you would set your aim
On the clouds all around that endless sky
The moment you break free
You'll finally find, find all you seek
And it's all waiting there
In that blue, in that blue sky up above
In that blue, in that blue sky up above
In that blue, in that blue sky up above

With a sound like the storm turning bitter and dark
That window shut in your heart, it shatters, falling apart
So unless you escape from your cold broken cage
So break away without ever looking back

There is a chase inside my chest
Where my heart beats quick as my breath
And so I kick the window in and fly away

You said if you could fly
You'd fly and nothing would stop you
You're tempted by that voice
That's so far, so far from where you are
I'll take your eager hand
And take you far, far way with me
So you could see my world
It's the blue, the blue sky up above

Hey, it's okay to fail
Yeah, it's okay to fall
What really counts, what only counts
Is if you pull yourself back up

You said if you could fly
You would fly far, far into the sky
And you would set your aim
On the clouds all around that endless sky
The moment you break free
You'll finally find, find all you seek
And it's all waiting there
In that blue, in that blue sky up above

In that blue, in that blue sky up above
In that blue, in that blue sky up above