

Last Stardust

AmaLee

Within a perfect dream, I felt the rain
Suddenly as it started pouring
Soaked on through, but I kept on walking
My soul shaking from the cold

And with these hands
I gathered the memories
Though they're losing color and fading
I held to the hope they could maybe
Patch the hollow of my heart

This thing called love
Know I would've
Thrown it all away - wouldn't hesitate
If I could find what I have lost along the way

If to feel pain is my fate
Then I just have one thing to say
Here in my scarred-covered heart
Color will always exist
I watch the LAST STARDUST, rise up and fly
DUST TO DUST
ASH TO ASH into the sky
These fragments of my hopes and dreams, never die

Quietly with the receding rainfall
The night wind, it suddenly withdrawals
With my broken heart I stand alone
Only silence at my side

I wouldn't mind if it's a lie
If all of my rights - they turned into wrongs
As long as I protect the things that I believe

Another scar, one more scratch
To my heart that's made out of glass
It lights a spark, burning hot
One I had nearly forgot

I watch the LAST STARDUST, rise up and fly
DUST TO DUST
EARTH TO EARTH, I say goodbye
These fragments of my hopes and dreams, give me life

Brave Shine
Stay the night
Save my life
Your Brave Shine
Brave Shine

If to feel pain is my fate
Then I just have one thing to say
Here in my scarred covered heart
Color will always exist
Kiss me farewell, Judas! Turning to ash
DUST TO DUST
This weakness of my distant past

Another scar, one more scratch
To my heart that's made out of glass
It lights a spark, burning hot
One I had nearly forgot

I'll watch the LAST STARDUST, rise up and fly
DUST TO DUST
ASH TO ASH into the sky
These fragments of my hopes and dreams, never die
