

Re: Member

AmaLee

Strum to the bright melody of life
At last, you've arrived
It's the start of a new journey right before your eyes

We grow and change like the seasons come and go
Realize our strength as we age, the more we know
We live every day like it's leading a way to our goal
(Looks like a survival game)

But when it comes to the love we left behind
Our hearts were young in this endless flow of time
We've even forgotten how we can forget in this life

Back then my world was crumbling
And it was so lonely
But then you turned to me and said, "You're not alone!" and

Open your soul and away we go
All of the love you hold
Set it free and you will see your tears they change destiny
And if the beats of your heart echo through the dark
They'll come to where you are
Following this path of pain that marks us like a star

I tried to find something I lost long ago
Realizing my memories weren't more than smoke
But something so precious you'd think I would hold it more close

Right at the edge of the unknown
But then you brought me home
A little spark of warmth from you is all it takes to

Open your soul and away we go
All of the love you hold
Set it free and you will see your tears they change destiny
And if the beats of your heart echo through the dark
They'll come to where you are
Following this path of pain that marks us like a star

(I gotta remember)
(I gotta remember)
(I gotta remember)
(I can hear someone's calling out now)

Open your soul and away we go
All of the love you hold
Set it free and you will see your tears they change destiny
And if the beats of your heart echo through the dark
They'll come to where you are

Strum to the bright melody of life
At last, you've arrived
It's the start of a new journey right before your eyes