I waited for you - And waited for you
And made a mistake I can never undo
And now I look back but then I lose track
I spent so much time I can never get back

Could wait forever, but then I won't learn
That memories fade, no matter how much it hurts
And on the inside, I feel my heart cry
I'm tearing at the walls in the corners of my mind

Wanna tell you just to hold but now, those days are gone

Hold on - I still regret word every word, that day, I never said

I still remember the tangle we were
But in the end, what did we give it up for?
It was something so small, worth nothing at all
But it was my everything and now I've lost it all
Ohh... Now I will never get the chance to tell you

Pause

I realized that I'm a witness to time
The change that evolves, as the days all fly by
And on the inside, I feel my heart cry
I'm tearing at the walls in the corners of my mind

I waited for you - And waited for you
And made a mistake I can never undo
And deep in my soul, I'm losing control
Another new day
Yet another painful toll

I realized that I'm a witness to time

Wanna tell you just to hold on Hold on... Hold on

Nothing will ever bring you harm
Even if we awaken from the darkness
The other side is waiting, the night to be my guide
This city, where once we had found a haven
Grew colder before our eyes, as snow fell from the skies
Know that, there's a scar with your name in my heart
That never will heal or fade with time
If it were to vanish, then I'd forget

But this scar in me, stays
As your laughter, it fades
I plead, so it won't be erased

All long, I was who saw
You past, you now, and future to come
I saw your fears, the flicker of your cheer
Everything

I believed that when we grew up

The world wouldn't be cold
But I was mistaken cause it's all the same

It was me who all long, the one who saw
You past - you now - and future to come
