Can you still see your dreams shining brightly
Or have they gone dull against the stars?

Tell me, are they brighter or duller
Now that I'm holding your hand?

I have seen hearts like yours glow with a passion we call love
When emotions overflow, I know you'll rise above

I once believed without a doubt
That all my dreams were close in my reach
No matter how far they seemed out
The me that was once so full of hope
Faded away and now sleeps restlessly in my heart

Like a glass rose
Dreams keep on breaking
Where do those fragments go when the wind blows?

Some dreams combine and a love is formed
But some dreams cannot intertwine

Even when they're left alone
Dreams continue to grow
Expressing love can be hard
And you might even get scarred

I once believed without a doubt
That all my dreams were close in my reach
No matter how far they seemed out
The me that was once so full of hope
Faded away and now sleeps restlessly in my heart
I once believed without a doubt
That all my dreams were close in my reach
No matter how far they seemed out
The me that was once so full of hope
Faded away and now sleeps restlessly in my heart
