

Sorairo Days

AmaLee

Tell me if - If you can hear
Even just the sound of my voice
Loud and clear, free from the void
That once consumed it whole

If this world retains some worth
Then there may still be some hope left
To unearth my destiny and give these feelings a role

I was crushed by the weight of my impatient dreams
And so, I just surrendered
Without even knowing the color or the road to the endless sky

My mind, in overdrive
And so at last, I feel alive
Let the feeling, slowly taking over
Drive the beat of my heart

The me I am today
She will surely carve a way
And continue on in search of finding
Who we're meant to be

The answer that I seek
It always will exist in me

Here and now - no looking back
On the seasons that have all passed
And I vow, no matter what, that I will hold my ground
Small regrets - they pile high
Slowly make their way to the sky
But I'll bear all of their weight - cause they're a part of me now

I've come too far to quit
While following the path your silhouette's created
I've realized the truth
That I'm the only one who can make a change

Those words you gave me
They have a meaning finally
Even now I hear your voice
It's calling once more to my heart

I'm far from knowing why
But there's a reason I'm alive
And I get little closer to it every single day

The answer that I seek
It always will exist in me

It's like it was meant to be
Everything had fallen perfectly in place
Those precious days remain
And we'll live it all again, my friend - till then

My mind's in overdrive
And so at last, I feel alive

Let the feeling, slowly taking over
Drive the beat of my heart

The me I am today
She will surely carve a way
And continue on in search of finding
Who we're meant to be

The answer that I seek
It always will exist in me