

The World's Continuation

AmaLee

I recall that day we played together by the sea
Just you and me
Still that scent of ocean seems to fade each passing day
It slips away

So I sing an old familiar song
I hope you know the one
I will sing to call you back to me

I need you to hear it
Need you to believe in
Something out there beyond the open sea
Out in the starlight
I need you to hear it
Need you to believe it
There's a wind stirring my wings
That is always beckoning
Calling me above into the open sky

I recall a smile unbreakable and self-assured
Invincible
Now it hides behind the breaking waves upon the shore
Yet I see more

I'll sing every word and every note
I'll never forget it because
I know it came from you

Tried my best to hear it
Trying to believe in
You and me having one final goodbye
I'll see you waving
Trying to believe it
I want to believe it
That your song is now my song
Through your voice I'll carry on
And one day we'll fly you and I, in the open sky

I need you to hear it
Need you to believe in
Something out there beyond the open sea
Out in the starlight
Trying to believe it
I think I believe it
That one day we'll meet again
And continue this dreamland
In the gleaming dawn we'll wake up once again

Trying to believe it
Trying to believe in
Something out there beyond the open sea
Out in the starlight
Trying to believe it
Trying to believe it
