

As if the petals become the wind
The water shakes with every breath

Dive into an abyss
Search the night, for a single trace of light
And unaware, I close my heart

We'll reveal the truth at last, with the key to shake our reality
With only a touch of fleeting words
But if there was only one thing I'd keep forever
It would be that memory
And the color of the sky before me

I would give my pride and courage
But I'll never be discouraged

Burn it all to the ground
Tonight at last, set it free for the dream we will unleash

As if the petals become the wind
I finally can fight along your side
Even if I fall, till my last breath
Unto the end, I will forever shine

Our salvation has become my only wish
I will see it come to life
With your hand in mine, I will, leap into the world you see
And if you believe, we'll make it there
It's the promise of our bond
