

I wonder if this light inside my heart has been right here all along
And I've never noticed it at all
'Cause every time I stumble down
Or have to take the long way around
It shines on me forever more

The distant singing of the bells
If you listen close it tells a lonely story

Once more, I'll push my fears away
All that I endure today will make me stronger

The mere repeating of reality alone
Aligns the stars and all the wishes they take on
At last, I've found something to chase with all my might
I cannot fight or go against these feelings

No matter if one day I wake and blink away this world around me
And I'm lost in thoughts of what could be
I know that I will find my way
'Cause now I have this light within me
It shines on me forever more

Every night following that dream
Where I threw away that old and silly ribbon
Lights have adorned the city streets
And I've been without one fret or worry within

I need a sanctuary that will keep me safe
As if protected like an angel in heaven
If I cannot have wings I'd like someone to trust
I know it must be wonderful like magic

If I could choose I'd stay like this forever while this world around me
Fills with colors I have never seen
I know I wouldn't hesitate
'Cause now the colors of each moment
Will change and change forever more

Answers we cannot find
No matter if they're not kind
We'll find it even blind
That is true in my mind

I'm believing till the end that we are similar, my friend
One day I'll shine like this Dream World

If you just take a moment to blink all those tears away from your eyes
And you manage to conceal your cries
You'll never fear again because
The future you yearned for in heartache
Will shine on you forevermore, without a limit

No matter if one day I wake and blink away this world around me
And I'm lost in thoughts of what could be
I know that I will find my way
'Cause now I have this light within me

It shines on me forevermore
And shines and shines forevermore
For you and me, eternally
