

For Adam

Amanda Cook

You left, too soon
I didn't even get to say goodbye
To you, to you
And now, I'm left
With only the few pictures that remain
I should have taken more
When I had the time
When you were mine

You are not here
But can you hear me

The call that shattered my world
Was the voice that called you home
And now I'm left to hurt
How can I face this world alone

So now I wait
For a chance to see your face again
'Cause I know this is not the end
And I will live for the day
When I will walk through heaven and call your name
And you'll run to me
Through those crowded streets
You'll run to me

You are not here
But can you hear me

The call that shattered my world
Was the voice that called you home
And now I'm left to hurt
How can I face this world alone

I know You hear me
And I can hear You in my heart

You were the call that shattered my world
You're the voice that called him home
And now I'm left to hurt
But not without hope I cry with hope
'Cause I'm not alone, I'm not alone
