

Symphony

Amanda Cook

There was a girl, dark-haired and wide-eyed
Looked at the world strong-willed and not afraid to put up a fight
She appeared tough on the outside
One look at her and he made up his mind
I'm yours for a life

One thing lead to another
Now we're standing here together

You'll still be running by my side
When the world falls to its knees
And we'll still be dancing
When the world has lost the ability to hear
A symphony

One look from you and I know I'm beautiful
You give me courage to admit when I'm wrong and start over
So at the start of every adventure
Peering over the edge with you is where I want to be
It's where you'll find me

One foot in front of the other
Here's to hand in hand forever

'Cause you'll still be running by my side
When the world falls to its knees
And we'll still be dancing
When the world has lost the ability to hear
A symphony

Can you hear the stars
Singing out our song?
When you reach for me
The heavens sing along
Can you hear my heart
Pounding out a melody
That I belong with you
And you belong with me?

You'll still be running by my side
When the world admits defeat
And I'll still run home to you
When the world has made me bleed
And we'll still be dancing
When the world has lost the ability to hear
A symphony
