

Stupid Love

Amanda Shires

You were smiling so much you kissed me with your teeth
I thought long live the unknown machine
The heart with all its tricky wiring
Oh, I'm going in, I'm going all in
Your voice, it's something like the rain
It wakes me up and it thunders through my veins
And you might be my ruining
I lean into it, be my ruining
Now I wander late into the night
In search of that same moonlight
Where I caught you
Can I say that I caught you?
Oh, I want it to be true
I'm hearing choirs and carillon bells
Singing the stars they all stand for themselves

I'm staggering love, feeling it now
How 'bout you keep ringing me out
Now I wander late into the night
In search of that same moonlight
Where I caught you
Can I say that I caught you?
Oh, I want it to be true
Call it stupid love
Call it stupid love
Call it stupid love
Now I wander late into the night
In search of that same moonlight
Where I caught you
Can I say that I caught you?
Oh, I want it to be true
Oh, I want it to be true
Call it stupid love
