

Who You Are

Amber Pacific

You weren't right but was I wrong
We were caught up in a storm
Waging war, battles won
Even heroes come undone
It wasn't hard but you messed this up
At the end we had enough
Holding on, the damage done
I'm moving on

If this is it, I'll never miss
What we had when we were kids
Growing up this meant so much
We had it all in front of us
But our lives weren't just the same
You pulled it out from under me
But I won't bring you down
I guess it's over now

There's no fight in who you are
I fought for you, you fell so hard
You could mend a broken heart
Or break the ones who broke your fall
Where you stand you lost your chance
I wished you well I meant it
But I've lost all faith in who you are

You've always been the kind of friend
I could count on to the end
And if it's hard, don't play the part
You never stopped to let it in
I couldn't help when you gave this up
Turned your back on this so called love
But I won't bring you down
I guess it's over now

There's no fight in who you are
I fought for you, you fell so hard
You could mend a broken heart
Or break the ones who broke your fall
Where you stand you lost your chance
I wished you well I meant it
But I've lost all faith in who you are

For every time that you feel lost
Hear my voice and sing that song
You have a choice, not life or death
In the end not giving in
Cause you're free to make things right
With everything that's kept inside
Let it out, the worst is over now

There's no fight in who you are
I fought for you, you fell so hard
You could mend a broken heart
Or break the ones who broke your fall
Where you stand you lost your chance
I wished you well I meant it

But I've lost all faith in who you are

I fought for you, you fell so hard
You could mend a broken heart
Or break the ones who broke your fall
Where you stand you lost your chance
I wished you well I meant it
But I've lost all faith in who you are
But I've lost all faith