

Remembering

America

What good are the places that we used to go
I see all the faces, all our favorite shows
A constant reminder of the way things were
Hard to picture, did it all occur?

I don't wanna think about you anymore
I don't wanna tell you that my heart is breaking
I'm not the kind who likes remembering

Walking together down Lakeshore Drive
Something about it kept us both alive
Wondering if you got home alright
Worrying 'bout you got me up all night

I can't think about it anymore
I can't tell you that my heart is breaking
I'm not the kind who likes remembering

(Remembering) you're just a memory
(Remembering) I just can't live without you
(Remembering) it gets so heavy
(Remembering) I'm all alone

Something about the way it feels inside
Painting a picture that I just can't hide
Every morning it's the same old song
Knowing [?] takes too long

I can't think about it anymore
I can't tell you that my heart is breaking
I'm not the kind who likes remembering

(Remembering) you're just a memory
(Remembering) I just can't live without you
(Remembering) it gets so heavy
(Remembering) I'm all alone

And all through your life
It slipped through your hips
Without you to hold
The less I could stand

Every time I try to forget
You keep on throwing me back again
The same old thing keeps happening

(Remembering) every time I try to forget (you're just a memory)
(Remembering) you keep on throwing me back again (I just can't live without you)
(Remembering) the same old thing keeps happening (it gets so heavy)
(Remembering) I'm all alone

(Remembering) you're just a memory
(Remembering) I just can't live without you
(Remembering) it gets so heavy
(Remembering) I'm all alone
