

Bible Black October

American Aquarium

Your favorite time of year was late October
The way the leaves changed color in the fall
And ever since that day you said it was over
This house ain't a home and this heart's a hole in the wall

And I don't think you understand
How you ripped my world apart
And no girl out there will ever compare
You're the best at breakin' my heart

Do you remember Halloween last October?
Your lilly-white skin painted red in the blisterin' cold?
That was the year that you dressed like the Devil
And those Bible-black eyes no disguise for the lies you told

And I don't think you understand
How you ripped my world apart
And no girl out there will ever compare
You're the best at breakin' my heart

Well I guess I made it through this October
Then again, what else did you expect me to do?
Now I'm sellin' my favorite records to pay your share of the rent
And I'm drownin' downtown tryin' to drink away the mem'ries of you

And I don't think you understand
How you ripped my world apart
And no girl out there will ever compare
You're the best at breakin' my heart
Oh, no girl out there will ever compare
You're the best at breakin' my heart
