All right
It just might

A king is crying from his throne He had a queen but now she's gone What is this magic that we seek The mighty strong turn mighty weak Every good girl hears it Every bad boy fears it No matter what I see I believe, I believe The power touches me The power helps us see The power holds my hand The power drives me crazy A flower grows, an old man dies And through it all we still survive A poor man screams but no one hears Ain't nothing changed much through the years Every bad day needs it Every good day breeds it No matter how it feels When it's real you know it's real Stronger than any bomb that any man has ever made The power touches me The power helps us see The power holds my hand The power drives me crazy And it won't take long to understand Just how amazed I am Hey, hey Open up your eyes and see It won't take long to understand Just how amazed I am Every good day needs it Every bad day needs it No matter what I see I believe, I believe Stronger than any bomb any man has ever made The power touches me The power helps us see The power holds my hand The power drives me crazy The power touches me The power helps us see The power holds my hand The power drives me crazy The power drives me crazy If I believe and you believe And we believe everything is gonna be all right

(The power)
(The power)

(The power)

(The power)