

Troubles Coming In

Amy Studt

I woke up this morning I'm still drunk, on Everything you said and all those plans we made
And when you said them, you better mean them
'Cause it's easy when it's easy and the sun is out

Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in

I look up at you over my coffee
And when I do I see what I could be
Seasons change, guess they always do
But now the only me I see is you

Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in

I won't go curling up in
Bubble wrap, I'll
Take it on the chin, no
Holding back, 'cause
I've been here before
I've opened up that door, now
We better build something more
That won't go crashing to the floor

Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in
Troubles coming in

I won't go curling up in
Bubble wrap, I'll
Holding back, 'cause
I've been here before
I've opened up that door, now
We better build something more
That won't go crashing to the floor
