Amy Amy Amy

Amy Winehouse

Attracts me, till it hurts to concentrate, Distract me, stop me doin work i hate Just to show him how it feels; I walk past his desk in heels One leg resting on the chair From the side he pulls my hair.

Amy Amy Amy Although i've been here before Amy Amy Amy Your just to hard to ignore Masculin you spin a spell I think you'd wear me well Amy Amy Amy Wheres my morel parallel

It takes me, half an hour to write a verse He makes me imagine it from bad to worse My weakness from the other sex Every time his shoulders flex The way the shirt hangs off his back My train of thought spins right off track

Amy Amy Amy Although i've been here before Amy Amy Amy He's just to hard to ignore Masculin he spins a spell I think he'd wear me well Amy Amy Amy Wheres my morel parallel

His own style, right down to his deisel jeans Imobile, i can't think by any means Underwhere petes at the top I'll let you know where you should stop From the picture my mind drew I know I'd look good on you

Amy Amy Amy Although i've been here before Amy Amy Amy Your just to hard to ignore Masculin you spin a spell I think you'd wear me well Amy Amy Amy Wheres my morel parallel

Creative energy abused All my lyrics go unused When i clock black hair blue eyes I drift off i fantasize
