

The Flickering Lights

...and Oceans

After the rain
United in bloom
Upon fields
Beneath stones

And here on the other side of the flickering lights
In absence of existence of luminescence
My mind becomes one with the void
Devour Me!

And here in the ground below the flickering lights
In excess of flesh for efflorescence
My body becomes one with the soil
Absorb Me!

After the reign
Enshrined on canvas
Written letters
Carved in stone

And here on the other side of the flickering lights
In absence of existence of luminescence
My mind becomes one with the void
Devour Me!

And here in the ground below the flickering lights
In excess of flesh for efflorescence
My body becomes one with the soil
Absorb Me!