It Happened Last Night

And One

Fate would have it that she goes She takes a breath to talk Rain beats on the windows Can't move her feet to walk

A shining light It shines so bright

She takes her golden cross she says Time to pass away She looks heavenwards to pray To reach a better world today

Sick and tired of it Cancer blows her mind You've got to answer for that But you got it blind